Psychology, MS

Student Learning Outcomes

Students will:

• comprehend the discourse of psychology and communicate using the conventions of the discipline;

• be familiar with the historical context in which important theories in psychology were developed;

• develop expertise in the broad science of psychology, including advanced knowledge in research methods, statistics, biological psychology, history and systems of psychology and human learning;

• pose research questions and devise research strategies to answer them, including the use of quantitative methods;

• gather information from many sources and present persuasive arguments, learn the primary ethical principles of psychologists and recognize basic ethical issues and violations and be guided accordingly.