Admissions Application: SAAADMS

The SAAADMS form is used to view general information about a student’s application to the University. This includes application date, contact information, college, degree, program, level and term. This form does not display the actual decision made regarding a student’s application, but does display the application status.

A student may have multiple application forms if they have applied to different programs within the same term.
Why use this form?

SAAADMS provides details on a student’s application to the University and shows if a student has multiple applications. The Checklist section of this form can be used to check for missing items for incomplete applicants and student contact information.

When using this form you can access other Banner forms that will allow you to view documents associated with a student’s admission application. The forms you can navigate to is dependent on the student admission information you are currently viewing.

You can locate and view a student’s education history, which includes high school information, prior college information, grade point averages, and standardized test scores. This information may be needed when an admissions decision is made.

What is the difference between EagleNET and this form?

A student’s information will not display in EagleNET until they have been formally admitted to the University. Once the student’s application has been accepted and they begin attending the University, EagleNET provides their contact information, course schedule and other details related to the student.

Who should use this form?

This form is used by the Admissions Office, Records and Registration, Student Financial Services, Program or Graduate Coordinators, and Advisors to review information regarding a student’s application.
