The names published in this commencement program include all students who earned a doctorate, educational specialist, master’s or baccalaureate degree fall quarter 2014 or winter quarter 2015, and any student who applied for a degree for spring quarter 2015 or summer quarter 2015 by the posted deadline.

Participation in commencement and inclusion in the commencement program does not guarantee official granting of a degree. The Graduate Programs Office (doctorate, educational specialist, master’s) and the Records and Registration Office (baccalaureate) verify completion of all coursework before a degree is conferred. The official document verifying degree completion is the official Eastern Washington University transcript.
This event provides an opportunity for celebration, gratitude and reflection. In the midst of our celebration, we ask that you take a moment of silence to acknowledge the service, compassion and dedication of our faculty and staff members who are not with us today.

A History of Eastern Washington University

In 1882, the Benjamin P. Cheney Academy opened its doors to more than 200 enrolling students. A generous contribution of $10,000 from a wealthy transportation industrialist had at last fulfilled the dreams of Cheney citizens for an institute of higher learning in their community.

The academy became the State Normal School at Cheney in 1889, the same year in which Washington was given its statehood. The school was proudly designated as an institution “for the purpose of instruction of persons, both male and female, in the art of teaching the various branches that pertain to a good common school.”

By the time it became Eastern Washington College of Education in 1937, Eastern was already a fully accredited four-year degree-granting institution, offering majors in numerous subjects.

The campus grew rapidly in size and program offerings in the decades following World War II. In 1961, the name was again changed, this time to Eastern Washington State College. It was increasingly evident that the region needed professionals in many fields; in response, a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degree programs were added. Finally, in 1977, the name was changed to Eastern Washington University by the state legislature.

As a regional university, Eastern is charged with the special responsibility of meeting the undergraduate and graduate educational needs of the region’s people.

To that end, program areas have grown and been redefined as the needs of the Inland Northwest have grown and changed. Master’s programs have been added to meet the need for graduate-level education, and individual programs and schools have increasingly been granted accreditation by their respective oversight organizations as those programs and schools have grown and matured.

Today, Eastern students represent nearly every state in the union and more than 40 foreign countries. More than 100 different academic majors are available, offering students a wide variety of career-path options. Nearly 600 full-time and adjunct faculty teach on the Cheney campus and at several locations throughout the state. Three-quarters of Eastern’s full-time faculty members hold doctorate degrees. With a low student-to-faculty ratio, Eastern continues to stress small classes, personalized instruction and individual attention.

Perhaps even more significant than Eastern’s steady advancement during the past 133 years is the university’s expanded regional role and its evolving goals, objectives and vision of its future.

In the past decade, Eastern Washington University has become a major force in the state and the Pacific Northwest, not only in the education of more than 13,000 students each year, but in the civic, cultural, scientific and economic development of the state and region.

Graduation with Academic Honors

Undergraduate students who have demonstrated exceptional academic performance are honored in the commencement program listing.

Summa Cum Laude: Seniors who have a cumulative grade point average of 3.90-4.00—Gold Honors Cord.

Magna Cum Laude: Seniors who have a grade point average of 3.70-3.89—Silver Honors Cord.

Cum Laude: Seniors who have a grade point average of 3.50-3.69—Red and White Honors Cord.

University Honors: Seniors who completed special course work requirements through the Honors Program—Purple Honors Cord.

University Mace

The tradition of a ceremonial mace for academic institutions goes back to medieval times. Adapted in form from the ancient battle weapon used by knights, the ceremonial mace symbolized the authority of regal personages, city or shire ruling bodies and chief officers of chartered institutions.

Originally representing vested authority during all official meetings, it eventually came to be connected mainly with formal ceremonies. In academic institutions, this is usually in conjunction with an academic procession, where the mace is carried at the head of the line of march or just before the platform party.

The form of the ceremonial mace has remained fairly consistent over the centuries. Design often reflects the period of creation, especially in the elaboration of ornamentation. Gold, silver and dark wood are traditional materials.

Eastern’s mace, commissioned as a gift during the centennial year to the university by former and present members of the EWU Board of Trustees, was created by artist-craftsman Clifford Gaynard after a regionwide design competition. Its planished silver head in flowing cuplike form carries the university seal. The dark rosewood shaft with upper and medial gold-plated bosses is gently curved into the terminal silver cap at the bottom.

Although the modern design departs from the traditional straight and elaborately ornamented pattern, it retains a full effect of balance, dignity and decorum, while capturing the flowing lines typical of the eastern Washington landscape.

A permanent display case for the Eastern Washington University mace is located in the Office of the President.
Academic Regalia

The regalia worn for formal academic ceremonies such as commencements are patterned after the gowns and hoods worn regularly in the Middle Ages by scholars for warmth in unheated buildings and as distinguishing dress denoting their place in society.

A great variety of designs and colors developed over the years in the costume worn in different universities, but since 1895 in the United States, a uniform intercollegiate code of style and colors has been adhered to by most institutions.

In accordance with this code, most academic gowns are black, although some universities permit other solid colors. Occasionally, the robe color may indicate a professional distinction, such as deep purple for law or scarlet for ecclesiastical honors. Adaptations of the academic costume for high schools have sometimes used colors other than black for purely decorative purposes. Sometimes a distinguishing device on the robe or cap indicates an individual honor or a special occasion.

The baccalaureate gown is of simple cut with full, somewhat pointed sleeves. The front is closed and often no hood is worn with this gown. The mortar board head covering originated in ancient Greece, symbolizing the commitment of the scholar to a life of building. It has either a plain black tassel or one of a color indicating the subject area of the degree. The custom of shifting the cap’s tassel from right to left at the time of awarding the degree is used in lieu of investing each candidate with the bachelor’s hood.

The master’s gown is similar to the bachelor’s gown, except that the sleeves are fuller, cut square with a half-circle at the bottom and sometimes worn with the arms through a horizontal slit at elbow level.

The doctoral robe is ampler in cut with a full bell-shaped sleeve, velvet panel edging in the front and three velvet stripes on each sleeve. The velvet trim may be black or in the color appropriate to the degree. The mortar board tassel for the doctorate is gold. Some American and many foreign universities use cap forms other than the mortar board, ranging from a soft velvet beret to more elaborate fringed styles, each of which has its own historical tradition.

Hoods worn over the gowns have a velvet edging, usually in a color indicating the specific degree and a lining which is partially turned out to show the colors of the college or university which granted the degree.

Some of the colors used for tassels and velvet panels to designate the degree are:

Paul Reilly

A transplant from Florida, Paul Reilly came to the West Coast in 2004 and now happily calls Eastern Washington home. He graduated from EWU with an undergraduate degree in biology in 2012, and now a master’s of science degree in biology with a focus in ethnobotany in 2015.

Reilly is a recipient of the 2013 Schwartz Biotechnology Scholarship and was recognized as the 2014 Biology Graduate Student of the year. He served as the president of the EWU Biological Student Association in 2014-15. His master’s research focused on the analyses of a historically important food plants and uncovered some problems with modern nutritional testing of wild foods.

As an ethnobiologist, Reilly reports that he enjoys spending time thinking about the relationships between the natural world and people, and encouraging others to increase their wellness by embracing ancestral health techniques.

Outside of the classroom, Reilly enjoys being outdoors, working as an environmental educator for Turnbull National Wildlife Refuge and spending time with his family, especially his 6-year-old son Cayden. In sharing his story, he hopes to encourage others to reach their maximum potential through perseverance, service work, and “allowing the pieces to fall into place.”

Isaiah Ratliff

Isaiah Ratliff was born and raised in Spokane Valley, Washington, and attended East Valley High school.

He was initially drawn to Eastern through his high school's Running Start program, which he participated in for two years. During his four years as an undergraduate at EWU, Ratliff chose to major in electrical engineering with a minor in mathematics. He was the chair of EWU’s student branch of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers, through which he organized workshops and information sessions for students interested in electrical engineering.

In 2015, he was recognized by the Africana Studies Program with a “Keeper of the Dream” award, which honors the achievements of students from diverse ethnic backgrounds who are involved in research or service initiatives focusing on people or communities of African descent.

Outside of the classroom, Ratliff enjoyed playing video games, practicing bass, and tutoring other students in math. When asked about one of the things he appreciates most about Eastern, Ratliff reports that he had the chance to interact with, and learn from, many amazing people. He describes himself as ambitious and someone who works hard to “break down big dreams into manageable tasks.”
John B. Mason

John Mason's 39-year career in higher education has been divided about equally between teaching and administration. Following his doctoral studies at the University of Oregon in 1976, Mason assumed a teaching position at Youngstown State University (Ohio) and was named “Distinguished Professor” during his fourth year. After 10 years in Ohio, Mason accepted a position at Western Washington University, where his two-year term as faculty president introduced him to administrative work, and he subsequently served in a variety of administrative roles in four different universities: department chair, dean, associate vice president, provost and acting president. He came to EWU in 2007 as provost and vice president for Academic Affairs, and he joined the faculty of the English Department full time in 2010.

Although a specialist in American literature, Mason has always had eclectic academic interests, and his areas of teaching have included English education, rhetorical theory, LGBT literature, linguistics, journalism and humanities. His scholarly interests have been broad as well, and his publications have ranged from studies of American poets to Milton to teaching methodologies. His study of Walt Whitman's catalogues has been acknowledged as a significant contribution to Whitman studies and was chosen by Duke University Press as one of the “best of American Literature.”

Mason served on the staffs of two major regional accreditation agencies. He served as associate director of the Higher Learning Commission of the North Central Association of Schools and Colleges and as the executive associate director of the Western Association of Colleges and Schools. These positions involved him in on-site reviews of dozens of universities and the drafting of standards in the areas of graduate education and institutional assessment.

Mason has also been active in school-college collaborations, and he was primary author on a successful $5.7 million Kellogg Foundation grant for the improvement of teacher preparation.

Paul J. Green

Paul Green received his master’s in outdoor education from the University of Northern Colorado and his PhD in outdoor recreation from the University of Oregon. His background as a SERE Instructor and professional mountain/river guide gave him the proper foundation for educating students in the skills and techniques of an outdoor leader. Green won awards for his outstanding classroom and field instruction, including the PTI Faculty Achievement Award and the EWU Faculty Achievement Award.

In 1978, Green presented the outdoor recreation curriculum to the Faculty Senate for their approval. The exciting new outdoor recreation major included classes in whitewater kayaking, mountaineering, wilderness survival, winter camping and whitewater rafting.

Green’s research presented to the Washington State Winter Recreation Committee started the grooming of the cross-country ski trails on Mount Spokane. Additional research justified the expansion of the ski trail system and added a warming hut, which rapidly changed Mount Spokane into Washington State’s largest Winter Recreation Park. Green and his students developed the model for the EPIC adventure program funded by the EWU Associated Students.

During his nearly 40 years at EWU, he led more than 3,000 youth-at-risk, physically challenged youth and community youth on adventure activities to improve their self-esteem.

Green served on the board of directors for the Wilderness Education Association, the National Association for Search and Rescue, the Council for Survival Education, the Aviation and Flight Equipment Association and the Junction Teen Center.

In June 1985, Green established the fastest ascent of Alaska’s Mount McKinley (20,320 feet) with novice clients. Mount McKinley’s name changed to Denali but his record still stands today.

Wayne B. Kraft

Wayne Kraft came to Eastern in 1968, as an assistant professor of German. In doctoral study, he specialized in medieval German literature.

He received a Fulbright Research Grant for Budapest, Hungary, in 1986-87. In Budapest, he studied at the Gutenberg Ensemble where he met his future wife, Ildikó Kalapács.

Kraft and Ildikó established the Erdely Ensemble in Spokane in 1988. The ensemble performed frequently and produced 10 annual theater concerts in Spokane with the Jómóka Tánház Band of Salt Lake City.

In 2003, old Kraft won the endowed lecture award of the Selma Jeanne Cohen Fund for International Scholarship on Dance, supporting his presentation of “Transylvanian Dancing in the Final Hour” at the conference of the Fulbright Association in Washington D.C.

In 2005, he co-directed The Village Project—an interdisciplinary and integrative exploration of diversity and identity with special reference to East Central Europe and the Hungarian villages of Transylvania. The project encompassed the university course “Contention and Change,” special presentations in a dozen other university courses, and a university concert of Hungarian village music, featuring the Jómóka Band and international star Mártá Sebestyén.

Kraft did field work in a Transylvanian Hungarian village from 1995 onward, reporting at conferences in anthropology and Hungarian studies on changes in the years after the fall of Ceauşescu. In 2011, he published “Changing Traditions and Village Development in Kalotaszéktársúly” in the Festschrift for John Miles Foley, endeavoring to nudge the discipline of oral studies closer to that of cultural anthropology.
Faculty Emeriti Recognition

Karen A. Carlberg
Since joining the EWU faculty in 1983, Karen A. Carlberg has contributed to the education of biology majors ranging from freshmen to graduate students, majors and non-majors pursuing health care careers, EWU physical therapy students, University of Washington dental students and UW WWAMI medical students. She is an affiliate faculty member with both the University of Washington and the EWU Department of Women’s and Gender Studies. Her biology of women course, for which she wrote a textbook, is part of the women's and gender studies curriculum. She is recognized by her colleagues and students for her organization, thoroughness and rigor. In her classes, she has stressed investigative learning, group projects, class presentations, critical thinking and writing.

Carlberg’s research has focused on exercise physiology, especially the effects of exercise training on menstrual and estrous cycles, pregnancy and fetal development. Some of her research funding came through the National Institutes of Health. Her grants provided research opportunities for many undergraduate and graduate students, including 14 master’s theses.

Carlberg has also been committed to service. She served as chair of the Department of Biology for three years. She has been instrumental in developing guidelines for laboratory animal care at EWU through her leadership on the Institutional Animal Care and Use Committee. She has also been a member of the American Physiological Society, a Fellow in the American College of Sports Medicine and president of the Northwest Chapter of the American College of Sports Medicine. She served as an associate editor for Medicine and Science in Sports and Exercise, as well as reviewing manuscripts for numerous journals in physiology and sports medicine.

Jerry R. Galm
For 36 years, Jerry Galm, PhD, has dedicated himself to building a better Eastern Washington University. Initially hired as an archaeologist at Archaeological and Historical Services, he helped to build that unit into a highly respected cultural resource with a sterling reputation locally, regionally and beyond. As a professor, Galm brought his expertise in the area of Pacific Northwest archaeology to the curriculum, later expanding his own research interests by picking up courses in cultural ecology, medical anthropology, African studies and Central Asian studies.

Galm often stepped into the breaches left by departing faculty to ensure that students continued to have access to the courses deemed necessary to their success. His colleagues and students always knew he would provide instruction of an impressively high quality out of combination of sheer determination and natural talent.

Galm’s scholarly production during his time at EWU has been nothing short of Herculean. So many archaeological site reports, peer-reviewed publications and conference presentations that there are too many to count. Galm has been similarly prolific in his service to the department, the college, the university and the community. Without his tireless work over the years, countless conferences would not have run as smoothly, numerous university, college committees would not have been as effective, and a large number of students would not have been mentored in their fields of interest.

It is difficult to capture all the ways, both small and large, that Galm has quietly served his students, his colleagues, his institution and his community. The words “will be greatly missed” wrap it all up.

Ardean R. Nickerson
Professor Ardean Nickerson retired from EWU in December 2014, after 30 years of service. She received a BS in dental hygiene from Idaho State University in 1969, and a MEd from EWU in 1980.

She began teaching in the Dental Hygiene Department in 1975 and rose from assistant professor (1984) to associate professor (1990) and professor (1999).

Nickerson was director of EWU’s restorative dentistry curriculum. During her tenure she supervised students in all levels of clinic, taught radiology/local anesthesia laboratories, dental anatomy, gerontology and oral biology. She developed materials for all of her courses and mentored independent study students in research endeavors.

Nickerson’s teaching philosophy evolved: she wove cooperative learning and group activities into her courses to reinforce didactic material. She valued student-to-student and instructor-to-student interaction, believing they learned from each other.

EWU dental hygiene faculty are encouraged to continue working in the private dental sector to maintain the skills they teach students. During her time at EWU, Nickerson worked in private practice one day per week.

Nickerson was appointed to serve on the Washington State Restorative Exam Committee for licensure of dental hygienists. She was on the editorial review board of the peer-reviewed Journal of Practical Hygiene. She was a regularly invited speaker to state and regional conferences.

Nickerson’s service included working with state and national legislative issues to promote the dental hygiene profession. She volunteered in EWU’s clinics for events such as Dental Camp and Give Kids a Smile Days. She was a member of the Western Regional Examining Board (WREB) Restorative Committee and continues to be an examiner for restorative examinations.

Allan T. Scholz

Allan T. Scholz received his PhD, master’s and Bachelor of Science degrees in zoology from the University of Wisconsin, Madison, in 1990, 1977 and 1976, respectively.

After joining the biology faculty at EWU in 1980, he rose through the ranks and became a full professor in 1986.

At EWU, he taught courses in ichthyology, fisheries management, biology, marine biology, history of biology, and the growth of biological thought. He has authored seven books and 142 publications and technical reports, most of them about fishes in eastern Washington.

Scholz has been awarded 146 research grants and contracts to support his research. He is best known for his work on olfactory imprinting and homing in salmon and his four-volume treatise titled The Fishes of Eastern Washington: A Natural History.

He was awarded Eastern’s Board of Trustees Medal in 1986. In 2007, he received a commendation from the Northwest Power and Conservation Council/Bonneville Power Administration for his leadership in implementing the Columbia Basin Fish and Wildlife Program.

In 2015, he received a Sierra Club/Center for Environmental Law and Policy watershed hero award for his work in restoring fisheries in the Upper Columbia River Basin.

Perhaps his most significant accomplishment has been in training fisheries scientists. He supervised 45 graduate students and approximately 120 undergraduate students who worked as assistants on one of his many research grants. Most of them have been employed by federal, state and tribal fisheries management agencies, public utility districts or private consulting firms. Scholz still maintains professional contact with many of his former students.

Mahlon B. Dalley

Mahlon Dalley began his journey at EWU in 1996. He served multiple terms as School Psychology Program director and was Psychology Department chair from 2001-2005. Dalley mentored hundreds of students and chaired countless graduate thesis committees. He successfully obtained program approval for the EWU School Psychology Program by the National Association of School Psychologists, co-developed multiple innovative programs and courses in the Psychology Department, and worked in private practice as a licensed psychologist.

His practice was known for serving the needs of the community, providing hands-on practice for graduate students and enhancing the content of his graduate assessment courses.

While Dalley is often remembered for his program and department leadership, he also taught large “high impact” classes of undergraduate courses and was identified as a “beloved” professor by students in Spokane’s Inlander magazine. He consistently developed meaningful undergraduate research projects that introduced students to positive psychology and peace psychology.

In 2005, Dalley served as a Fulbright Scholar at the University of Botswana in Gaborone, Botswana. His experiences in Africa led to later research projects in peace psychology and provided unique and intriguing projects for Eastern students who worked in his lab.

Dalley embodied, and taught, ideas he held most valuable. He developed a social emotional learning curriculum, Teaching Optimism, Hope, and Resiliency to Youth (TOHRY) and provided modeling of positive psychology in everyday life. He was known for always having a listening ear and gentle guidance for those around him.

Dalley retired from EWU in 2014, and is spending quality time with his family and grandchildren.

Leonard D. Stern (posthumous)

A gifted teacher, accomplished scholar and a respected colleague, Leonard Stern taught psychology from 1980-2012. He believed that serving students was his highest calling and worked long hours on a daily basis polishing his pedagogical skills. He spent years pioneering an innovative “visual sequential approach” to teaching computerized statistical analysis. This work is best epitomized by his text A Visual Approach to SPSS in Windows that has been utilized extensively in university level statistics classes around the world.

Stern’s own professional success was always secondary to his main focus; the often unheralded business of educating and mentoring every student who walked through the doors of his classroom.

Stern’s impact in the classroom motivated Jeff Joireman, PhD, to create the Leonard D. Stern Research Award, an endowed scholarship that provides an annual $1,000 award to support an EWU psychology student pursuing a promising research topic in the field of psychology.

Joireman, a former student and current professor at WSU, was Stern’s research assistant during in 1984, an experience that inspired him to attend graduate school. Joireman stated, “Without Leonard’s guidance and support, it is unlikely that I would have pursued a PhD and enjoyed the opportunity of an academic career. It was a great experience, and I have always wanted to honor the mentoring that he gave me.”

Stern was a kind, thoughtful and articulate colleague who provided senior leadership to the department for many years. Leonard Stern no longer roam the halls and classrooms of EWU, but his legacy lives on in the hearts and minds of the countless Eastern students and faculty he inspired.
Robert William Clark

William Clark received his PhD in physiology and biophysics from the University of Washington in 1976. He obtained his master's degree in computer science from Washington State University, in 1986.

Clark started teaching computer science at EWU in 1987. During the 27 years that he taught in the Computer Science (CS) Department, he developed several key courses in his specialty area of computer graphics. The courses, developed at the undergraduate and graduate levels, contributed greatly to the breadth of the department’s curriculum. He mentored many graduate students, all of whom have gone on to work in industry or obtain further education.

Clark produced a number of publications in the area of graphics and visualization. Most recently, he created a graphical application for visualizing the human brain in collaboration with Paul Schimpf, PhD, also from the department.

Clark has chaired the graduate committee in the CS Department for many years and the DPC committee. He has been a member of the undergraduate curriculum committee, the assessment committee and the policies and procedures committee. He has also been the department’s faculty senate representative and been a member of other university committees throughout his career at Eastern.

He is a member of a number of professional societies including Association for Computing Machinery, IEEE Computer Society, American Association for the Advancement of Science and Sigma Xi.

Clark grew up in Silver Spring, Maryland. He is married to Mary Miller, a psychologist in Spokane. The Clarks have two children, Erin, a junior at EWU, and a member of the EWU track team, and Hope, a junior at Cheney High School.
Trustees’ Medal Award

Our recipient of the EWU Trustees' Medal has a distinguished record of excellence in teaching, service to the community, scholarly publication and contribution to the counseling profession.

Alan Basham is a senior lecturer in the Department of Psychology whose impact extends far beyond his teaching responsibilities at the university. He has been a core leader in the continued development, quality and reputation of EWU’s nationally certified Counselor Education program, which trains both mental health counselors and school counselors. He has been instrumental in integrating diversity throughout the curriculum and has revised a number of courses to keep counselor education on the cutting edge of the profession. His teaching skill has received consistently glowing student evaluations and peer reviews that are arguably among the highest in his department. This teaching excellence was recognized when he was selected as Graduate Professor of the Year in 2005-6 and received the Distinguished Faculty Award in Teaching in 2006-7.

In addition to teaching excellence, Basham has exceeded the contractual expectations of a senior lecturer in multiple capacities. Here are a few examples:

When he joined the faculty in 1995, Basham was completing his responsibilities as president of the Washington Counseling Association. He was subsequently elected as president of the Association for Spiritual, Ethical and Religious Values in Counseling (ASERVIC), a national division of the American Counseling Association (1999-2000), and served on the Presidents’ Advisory Council of ACA. Along the way, he received the Henry Bertness Award from the Washington Counseling Association, its highest recognition for contribution to the counseling profession in the state of Washington.

Basham is a skilled team-building consultant and public speaker who has helped numerous organizations become more effective. At EWU, he has assisted academic departments, athletic teams, administrative offices and student organizations. In the Spokane area, he has been a staff training consultant to Union Gospel Mission, Anna Ogeden Hall women and children’s shelter, Catholic Charities, City Gate, Spokane Community College, YWCA and several schools. Across the state, he brought team-building training to businesses, military units, Washington’s crisis intervention and emergency management teams and many community service agencies.

Years ago, Basham was a medical evacuation hospital corpsman with the Marine Corps in Vietnam, where he flew in helicopters into combat zones to provide emergency treatment for wounded Marines and civilians as one of the MAG-16 Flying Docs. Because of his experiences as medevac corpsman and because of a deeply ingrained sense of justice, he was instrumental in the efforts of a small group of faculty and staff members that led to the eventual creation of EWU’s Veterans Resource Center, where he served as liaison from his college for its first two years. He was also asked to serve as technical consultant by Sara Goff (director) and Jeff Sanders (playwright) of EWU’s awarding-winning play about Vietnam, The Things They Carried. His contribution to the play and its cast were “deeply transformative” (Goff); he became the inspiration for the play, which was formally dedicated to him in response to his efforts.

Basham has contributed substantially to scholarly publications throughout his time at EWU. He was lead author of a book on teamwork and ethical leadership, has written four invited chapters in graduate texts about counseling, and was published in the Journal of Counseling and Development, the leading journal in his field. In addition, he contributed two chapters to ACA’s innovative texts on integrating client personal belief into the counseling process, including one on the use of personally meaningful ritual. He is currently developing a career guidance protocol for working within the collectivist world view of Native American citizens.

In sum, Alan Basham has had a distinguished career of teaching, writing, serving, challenging and calling forth the best in those he encounters. He believes in servant leadership and in making scholarship relevant by helping to empower the efforts and improve the life experience of those he encounters.
Distinguished Service Awards

The Distinguished Service Awards are given each year to recognize exemplary service and outstanding contributions to the university. Letters of nomination and support are reviewed by the University Medals and Awards Committee.

The award includes the Distinguished Service Award medallion and a check for $1,000. These awards were presented at the University Family Thanksgiving luncheon in November 2013.

Elena Axton helps EWU students see the world. She prepares them, protects them and provides the tools to make studying abroad a life-changing experience.

Axton began working at EWU in the International Field Studies Office in 2005, and currently serves as the study abroad advisor in Eastern’s Office of Global Initiatives. She advises students about opportunities and helps them identify options that meet their personal and academic objectives.

Axton received accolades from a cross-section of campus constituents, but perhaps the most compelling stories about Axton’s contributions come from students themselves. Arthur Ungureanu met Axton when he was planning a study abroad trip to Palestine. A few months into his stay, war broke out in the region. “Elena and I kept in contact every day and she even organized a video conference with me to make sure I was in a safe area, out of the danger zone. She gave me valuable advice on how to prepare, and developed alternative plans of escape in case my region was affected.”

Carl Vollmer says that studying in Japan was the best experience in his life, and the person that is the most responsible for his enjoyable experience is Axton. She requires that students keep a journal or blog about their experiences. “Because of the requirement, I am now able to look back at my experience and remember how I felt at each step of my journey, and can, in a way, relive and share my experiences.”

Safety is a key component for a successful study abroad program, to protect the students and the university. Scotty Reed said Axton prepares students for every possible issue that may arise overseas. Before leaving for Canada, he and other students attended an orientation that covered self-defense. “These guys were prior service SEALS and combat-arms veterans. She sure sends her student abroad ready for anything.”

Axton inspired Paige Webley to study abroad in Jordan. “She has shaped my life exponentially and has influenced it in far greater ways than I have yet to imagine. It is hard to measure how many lives she has touched. She is a driving force creating environments for student’s personal transformations, while always focusing on students’ success.”

George Barrena
Classified Staff

After a 20-year career as a private contractor, George Barrena started working in EWU’s electrical department in January 1999, on a one-year contract to install energy-saving light bulbs on campus. When that assignment was completed, he was offered a permanent position in the Residential Life and Housing Maintenance Department.

Over the years, he has maintained Dryden and Louis Anderson halls, the Married Student Court, and most recently, Brewster Hall, Holter House, the Family Townhouses and Anna Maria apartments.

In their nomination of Barrena for this award, former Townhouse residents Scott and Heather Summers wrote, “GEORGE! The online work order system is great mostly because it brings George. Every time we have a concern, BOOM – it is taken care of, and he is always friendly and courteous. A simple thing like our toilet flapper always needing to be jiggled to stop running water – fixed first thing the next morning. We had a closet door jump off the railing – he was there. While they might seem like minor things, having him right on it and with a great attitude makes me glad we decided on the Townhouse apartments rather than an off-campus apartment.”

Wade Neilson and his wife managed Holter House and Anna Maria apartments for four years. “Not only was George excellent at identifying and correcting problems in the units, he did it with pleasure and a great attitude. George loves to repair things and build relationship with people that he is around. He made us and our residents feel like the top priority.”

Barrena has proven to be an excellent mentor to the students he’s worked with as well. Sharlie Corcoran worked with Barrena for two years. She wrote, “He exudes the time and patience to successfully train the student workers on proper technique and safety. His dedication to providing proper guidance in these general maintenance practices has proven effective in the student development process and some have continued onto their professional careers utilizing the skills George has provided them.”

Michelle Schultz, apartment coordinator for University Apartments concurs, “He is patient with our students and keeps these old buildings in the best possible shape for our students. The university is lucky to have him.”
The Frances B. Huston Medallion Award was established in 1998 by a gift from Mary Ann Nelson, professor of English emerita, as a tribute to Professor of English Frances B. Huston’s lifelong commitment to education and a generosity to students that was quiet but ongoing. The medallion award program recognizes outstanding graduates and reflects Huston’s compassion and respect for what education can do for an individual and a community.

The recipients of this award will have established themselves as exceptionally capable individuals in both academic and extracurricular activities. The faculty and administration of Eastern Washington University acknowledge their great pride in the accomplishments of these students during their college experience and expect even greater accomplishments in the years that lie ahead.
