The names published in this commencement program include all students who earned a doctorate, educational specialist, master’s or baccalaureate degree fall quarter 2011 or winter quarter 2012, and any student who applied for a degree for spring quarter 2012 or summer quarter 2012 by the posted deadline.

Participation in commencement and inclusion in the commencement program does not guarantee official granting of a degree. The Graduate Studies Office (doctorate, educational specialist, master’s) and the Records and Registration Office (baccalaureate) verify completion of all course work before a degree is conferred. The official document verifying degree completion is the official Eastern Washington University transcript.

In 1882, the Benjamin P. Cheney Academy opened its doors to more than 200 enrolling students. A generous contribution of $10,000 from a wealthy transportation industrialist had at last fulfilled the dreams of Cheney citizens for an institute of higher learning in their community.

The academy became the State Normal School at Cheney in 1889, the same year in which Washington was given its statehood. The school was proudly designated as an institution “for the purpose of instruction of persons, both male and female, in the art of teaching the various branches that pertain to a good common school.”

By the time it became Eastern Washington College of Education in 1937, Eastern was already a fully accredited four-year degree-granting institution, offering majors in numerous subjects.

The campus grew rapidly in size and program offerings in the decades following World War II. In 1961, the name was again changed, this time to Eastern Washington State College. It was increasingly evident that the region needed professionals in many fields; in response, a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degree programs were added. Finally, in 1977, the name was changed to Eastern Washington University by the state legislature.

As a regional university, Eastern is charged with the special responsibility of meeting the undergraduate and graduate educational needs of the region’s people.

To that end, program areas have grown and been redefined as the needs of the Inland Northwest have grown and changed. Master’s programs have been added to meet the need for graduate-level education, and individual programs and schools have increasingly been granted accreditation by their respective oversight organizations as those programs and schools have grown and matured.

Today’s Eastern students represent nearly every state in the union and more than 40 foreign countries. More than 100 different academic majors are available, offering students a wide variety of career-path options.

Nearly 600 full-time and adjunct faculty teach on the Cheney campus and at several locations throughout the state. Three-quarters of Eastern’s full-time faculty members hold doctorate degrees. With a low student-to-faculty ratio, Eastern continues to stress small classes, personalized instruction and individual attention.

Perhaps even more significant than Eastern’s steady advancement during the past 130 years is the university’s expanded regional role and its evolving goals, objectives and vision of its future.

In the past decade, Eastern Washington University has become a major force in the state and the Pacific Northwest, not only in the education of more than 12,000 students a year, but in the civic, cultural, scientific and economic development of the state and region.

And Eagles will win the VICTORY.

GRADUATION WITH ACADEMIC HONORS

Undergraduate students who have demonstrated exceptional academic performance are honored in the commencement program listing.

Summa Cum Laude: Seniors who have a cumulative grade point average of 3.90-4.00-Gold Honors Cord.

Magna Cum Laude: Seniors who have a grade point average of 3.70-3.89-Silver Honors Cord.

Cum Laude: Seniors who have a grade point average of 3.50-3.69-Red and White Honors Cord.

University Honors: Seniors who completed special course work requirements through the Honors Program-Purple Honors Cord.

UNIVERSITY MACE

The tradition of a ceremonial mace for academic institutions goes back to medieval times. Adapted in form from the ancient battle weapon used by knights, the ceremonial mace symbolized the authority of regal personages, city or shire ruling bodies and chief officers of chartered institutions.

Originally representing vested authority during all official meetings, it eventually came to be connected mainly with formal ceremonies. In academic institutions, this is usually in conjunction with an academic procession, where the mace is carried at the head of the line of march or just before the platform party.

The form of the ceremonial mace has remained fairly consistent over the centuries. Design often reflects the period of creation, especially in the elaboration of ornamentation. Gold, silver and dark wood are traditional materials.

Eastern’s mace, commissioned as a gift during the centennial year to the university by former and present members of the EWU Board of Trustees, was created by artist-craftsman Clifford Gaynard after a regionwide design competition. Its planished silver head in flowing cuplike form carries the university seal. The dark rosewood shaft with upper and medial gold-plated bosses is gently curved into the terminal silver cap at the bottom.

Although the modern design departs from the traditional straight and elaborately ornamented pattern, it retains a full effect of balance, dignity and decorum, while capturing the flowing lines typical of the eastern Washington landscape.

A permanent display case for the Eastern Washington University mace is located in the Office of the President.
Academic Regalia

The regalia worn for formal academic ceremonies such as commencements are patterned after the gowns and hoods worn regularly in the Middle Ages by scholars for warmth in unheated buildings and as distinguishing dress denoting their place in society.

A great variety of designs and colors developed over the years in the costume worn in different universities, but since 1895 in the United States, a uniform intercollegiate code of style and colors has been adhered to by most institutions.

In accordance with this code, most academic gowns are black, although some universities permit other solid colors. Occasionally, the robe color may indicate a professional distinction, such as deep purple for law or scarlet for ecclesiastical honors. Adaptations of the academic costume for high schools have sometimes used colors other than black for purely decorative purposes. Sometimes a distinguishing device on the robe or cap indicates an individual honor or a special occasion.

The baccalaureate gown is of simple cut with full, somewhat pointed sleeves. The front is closed and often no hood is worn with this gown. The mortar board head covering originated in ancient Greece, symbolizing the commitment of the scholar to a life of building. It has either a plain black tassel or one of a color indicating the subject area of the degree. The custom of shifting the cap's tassel from right to left at the time of awarding the degree is used in lieu of investing each candidate with the bachelor's hood.

The master's gown is similar to the bachelor's gown, except that the sleeves are fuller, cut square with a half-circle at the bottom and sometimes worn with the arms through a horizontal slit at elbow level.

The doctoral robe is ampler in cut with a full bell-shaped sleeve, velvet panel edging in the front and three velvet stripes on each sleeve. The velvet trim may be black or in the color appropriate to the degree. The mortar board tassel for the doctorate is gold. Some American and many foreign universities use cap forms other than the mortar board, ranging from a soft velvet beret to more elaborate fringed styles, each of which has its own historical tradition.

Hoods worn over the gowns have a velvet edging, usually in a color indicating the specific degree and a lining which is partially turned out to show the colors of the college or university which granted the degree.

Some of the colors used for tassels and velvet panels to designate the degree are:

- Arts and Letters: White
- Business: Drab
- Dentistry: Lilac
- Economics: Copper
- Education: Light Blue
- Engineering: Orange
- Fine Arts, Architecture and Urban and Regional Planning: Brown

Justice Steven C. González

Steven González was appointed to the Washington State Supreme Court effective January 1, 2012. Before joining the Supreme Court, Justice González served for 10 years as a trial judge on the King County Superior Court, hearing criminal, civil, juvenile and family law cases.

Prior to his election to the King County Superior Court, Justice González practiced both criminal and civil law. He was an Assistant United States Attorney in the Western District of Washington, a domestic violence prosecutor for the city of Seattle and an associate in the business law department at the Seattle law firm Hillis Clark Martin & Peterson.

As an Assistant United States Attorney, Justice González was part of the team that successfully prosecuted the international terrorism case U.S. v. Ressam, for which he received two Department of Justice awards: the U.S. Attorney General’s Award for Distinguished Service and the Director’s Award for Superior Performance. He also prosecuted organized crime cases and served as the Hate Crimes Prosecution Coordinator. After Sept. 11, he lectured on international terrorism prosecution to U.S. Attorneys in Washington D.C.

While working in private practice, Justice González gained significant civil and business law experience, including acquisitions, mergers, land use, intellectual property, commercial litigation and contract negotiation. He regularly provided pro bono representation to people who could not afford to pay for a lawyer. Justice González continues to be a frequent lecturer at continuing legal education seminars.

Justice González has received numerous awards throughout his career, including “Judge of the Year” awards from the Washington State Bar Association, the Washington Chapter of the American Board of Trial Advocates, and the Asian Bar Association of Washington in 2011. He also received the Exceptional Member Award from the Latina/o Bar Association of Washington in 2011 and the Vanguard Award from the King County Chapter of Washington Women Lawyers in 2009.

Justice González earned his BA with honors in East Asian studies from Pitzer College and his JD from U.C. Berkeley School of Law (Boalt Hall), where he was the technical editor of the La Raza Law Journal. As a part of his undergraduate degree, Justice González studied at Waseda University in Tokyo, Japan and at Nanjing University in China. Before law school, he did graduate work in economics at Hokkaido University on a scholarship from Rotary International. He received an honorary doctor of law degree from Gonzaga University School of Law in 2011, where he gave the commencement address.

Justice González is passionate about providing open access to the justice system for all. He was appointed by the Supreme Court to the Washington State Access to Justice Board and served on the board for seven years, including the last two years as its chair. He is a mentor to students through the Future of the Law Institute and many other organizations.

Justice González speaks Japanese, Mandarin Chinese and Spanish. He lives in Seattle with his wife, Michelle, an assistant dean at the University of Washington School of Law, and their two sons.
Commencement Speaker 2 p.m.

Brig. Gen. (Ret.) Neal Sealock

Neal Sealock returned to Spokane, Wash., following 31 years of distinguished service in the United States Army. He originally came to the Spokane area in 1966 when his father was stationed at Fairchild Air Force Base.

He attended Medical Lake High School, graduating in 1970, along with his future bride Donna (Inman).

Attending Eastern Washington State College, Sealock began his aviation career through the ROTC Flight Program, receiving his private pilot’s license at Geiger Field in 1974. Commissioning in the U.S. Army in 1974 as a Distinguished Military Graduate, he received a Regular Commission in the Infantry. Following his assignment to the 82nd Airborne Division, Sealock resumed his pursuit of a career in aviation.

Completing flight school and the AH-1 Cobra course in 1977, he subsequently served in a variety of aviation jobs including the Army Aviation Center, Fort Rucker, Ala., as an attack helicopter instructor pilot and flight commander. He later served as the operations officer for Hanchey Army Heliport, the largest heliport in existence. Sealock commanded aviation units at company level, a squadron in the 3rd Armored Cavalry and the 1st Aviation Brigade. His command responsibilities have included operations, logistics and training for initial entry flight students, graduate flight instruction, simulation, curriculum development, officer professional development, airfield management, aviation maintenance and the Army’s air traffic control school. Additionally, he was selected by the Army to study Mandarin Chinese and has served three tours of duty in China and two more in the Pacific Rim.

His academic record includes a Master of Science in International Relations from Troy University, study abroad at Fudan University in Shanghai, and a year as a National Security Fellow at the Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University.

Sealock was the U.S. Defense Attaché to the People’s Republic of China from September 2000 through August 2002. During that assignment, he was responsible for the U.S. team sent to Hainan Island to retrieve the EP-3 crew and aircraft.

Sealock culminated his Army career as the Deputy Commanding General, U.S. Army Cadet Command, Fort Monroe, Va. He served as the director of Spokane International Airport from December 2005 through December 2010. He is now an adjunct professor for Global Strategic Management at Whitworth University and a consultant for Check 6 Inc. in Asia.

He enjoys all outdoor activities with his bride of 40 years, Donna. They have two sons, K.C., residing in Florida, and Clint, a captain in the U.S. Army commanding an EOD Company, who recently returned from Afghanistan.
Harvey Alvy, EdD

Harvey Alvy first joined the Eastern Washington University faculty in 1995 and, after serving as the high school principal of Singapore American School (1997-2000), returned to EWU in 2000. He will always be grateful to have been given the opportunity to teach and serve so many EWU students who now work as successful principals and teachers in the state of Washington.

In 1991, the National Association of Elementary School Principals selected Alvy as a National Distinguished Principal for American Overseas Schools. He is a founding board member of the Principals’ Training Center for International Schools and served on the Washington State Board for the Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development (ASCD). In 2004, he received the EWU CenturyTel Faculty Achievement Award for Teaching Excellence. Since 2007, he has held the William C. Shreeve Endowed Professorship in educational administration.

Alvy’s teaching career began as a New York City elementary school teacher in Harlem. International experiences included positions at the American School in Kinshasa, Zaire, the American International School in Israel, the American Embassy School in New Delhi, India and Singapore. He served in the principalship for more than a decade in both elementary and secondary schools.

In 1983, Alvy earned his doctorate in educational administration from the University of Montana. Since then he has enjoyed giving conference presentations and workshops in the U. S. and internationally.

Linda Bolte, PhD

Linda Bolte joined Eastern Washington University’s Mathematics Department in 1993, upon the completion of a PhD in mathematics education from the University of Missouri.

During her tenure at EWU, she has taught a wide variety of courses in mathematics and mathematics education, focusing primarily on mathematics teacher preparation. She has a number of publications related to teaching undergraduate mathematics and to the preparation of mathematics teachers, as well as numerous international, national and regional conference presentations on these topics.

She has played an active role in the Washington State Mathematics Council, a professional organization that exists to promote and influence mathematics education, and the Washington Transition Mathematics Project.

Earning a bachelor’s degree in biology, an MA in special education and an MS in mathematics has allowed her to experience a diverse career in education prior to coming to EWU. She was a VISTA volunteer in an inner city school in Indiana, taught in public schools in Colorado and Montana, and was an assistant professor of mathematics at Western Montana College.

Bolte is highly regarded by students and colleagues, and has been awarded Chairs’ Excellence Awards for Teaching and for Service from the College of Science, Health and Engineering, as well as an EWU Outstanding Faculty Award for service.

She is enthusiastic about mathematics, and she endeavors to create a similar excitement in her students. Her passion for teaching is infectious. Bolte consistently challenged students to develop a deep understanding of mathematics that will enable them to teach effectively. Students and colleagues respect her for her high standards for students’ learning.

James Braukmann, PhD

James Braukmann began his teaching career as a bow-tied middle school shop teacher in the Mead School District. While pursuing a master’s degree, he was invited by his Eastern professors to assist the university in moving from the world of analog applications to the digital age.

He developed and taught many new courses for EWU, including courses in computer-aided drafting, electronics drafting, robotics, computer graphics, website design, digital prepress, digital photography and digital sound.

He received his PhD from the University of Idaho in 1991, and became a full professor at EWU in 1994. He served as Department of Engineering and Design chairman from 1991-1994, and again as interim chairman in 2011. Braukmann taught many other courses from electricity to metal fabrication to architecture. He took over a BA in Graphic Communications Program in the mid-1990s, at one time teaching all the core courses himself. The program has evolved into visual communication design, with a BA and a BFA, four faculty and 150 students.

He received the Dean’s Award for Teaching Excellence in 1995.

He was co-director of the Center for Digital Media Design and Development, a joint venture with Computer Science Department faculty, and served as the graduate advisor for his department.

Braukmann authored a pioneering BS technology – applied technology option degree, approved in 1997, featuring 2 + 2 articulation with associate of science degrees at state community colleges, the first program in Washington featuring skill-matching rather than course-matching.

He plans to enjoy working as an adjunct at EWU, teaching introductory and advanced digital sound, with faculty and students from design, music and film.
Michael Brzoska, PhD

Michael Brzoska, professor of engineering and design, has taught at the college level for 38 years, the last 28 years at Eastern Washington University. He specialized in computational fluid dynamics and has taught a wide variety of engineering and engineering technology courses during his career at Eastern. Brzoska earned his BS, MS and PhD degrees in mechanical engineering from Washington State University. Before coming to Eastern in 1983, Brzoska was an instructor of engineering at Central Luzon Polytechnic College in the Philippines, instructor at Highline Community College, instructor at Washington State University and a visiting assistant professor at the University of Idaho.

Brzoska was selected as a Fulbright professor, not once, but twice. His first appointment was at the University of Liberia, Monrovia, Liberia, and his second appointment was at Chulalongkorn University, Bangkok, Thailand. In addition to bringing his great teaching experience to the students of Eastern, as a professional engineer, he has shared his experience in industry with Peter Kiewit Sons’ Company, the State Department of Transportation and as a consulting engineer for many regional companies.

At Eastern, Brzoska has served in many capacities including chair of the department on two separate occasions, as the associate dean of the College of Science, Health and Engineering, as director of the EWU Comprehensive Mine Health and Safety Program and as director of the EWU Logging Safety Program.

He was the lead person in successfully developing the first engineering technology and engineering degrees at Eastern and was awarded the Dean’s Outstanding Faculty Award twice for his outstanding teaching. The university has greatly benefited from the many grants awarded to Brzoska, totaling more than $3.3 million from the National Science Foundation, U.S. Department of Labor, OSHA, SIRTI, the Society of Manufacturing Engineers, The Boeing Company, Keytronics, Fluke and INTEL.

Sandra Christensen, PhD

Sandra Christensen was professor of management, teaching courses in business and society, international business, and leadership and ethics.

During her tenure at Eastern Washington University, Christensen served on, or chaired, several Faculty Organization councils, committees and task forces, and was elected vice president and president elect of the Faculty Organization. She also served on various committees of the College of Business and Public Administration. She was chair of the Management Department from 1998-2002. Christensen retired from the faculty in June 2010, as Professor Emeritus of Management.

Her work has been published in journals such as Business and Society, Business Ethics Quarterly, the Journal of Business Ethics and the Academy of Management Review.

Christensen earned a doctorate degree in business and society at the University of Washington. She earned a master’s degree in business administration in taxation from Golden Gate University and another master’s degree in business administration from the University of California at Berkeley. Her undergraduate degree was in psychology, from the University of California at Berkeley.

She developed and led workshops on such topics as “Teaching Sustainability in the Capstone,” “Creating the Syllabus,” and “Experiential Learning in Business and Society” for associations and conferences, including Teaching Business Ethics and the International Association for Business and Society. Her work was presented at numerous international, national and regional conferences.

Diane Davis, PhD

Diane Davis received her PhD in social work at the University of Texas at Austin in 1992, after 20 years of social work practice in mental health, addiction and juvenile court. She was hired as a professor at Eastern Washington University in the fall of 1992. Her research agenda has been primarily in the area of addiction, including alcoholism, co-occurring disorders and gambling. She is the co-author (with Katherine van Wormer) of the best selling text Addiction Treatment: A Strengths Perspective published by Thomson, Brooks/Cole in 2003, which is now in the 3rd Edition (2013). The results of her research on women with gambling problems has been published in two different articles in the Journal of Social Work Practice and the Addictions, and were the subject of several national presentations including the National Problem Gambling Council conference.

In 2009, she authored Taking Back Your Life: Women and Compulsive Gambling (Hazelden). In social work academia, she is a leading advocate of including gambling problems with higher education on addiction.

Davis will retire after 20 years of service at the end of summer quarter 2012.
Fred Hurand, PhD

Fred Hurand arrived at Eastern in the fall of 1977, to teach in the Urban and Regional Planning Programs. He helped lead these two programs to national accreditation by the Planning Accreditation Program and assisted them through several reaccreditations. He has served as department chair of the Department of Urban and Regional Planning and the Department of Urban Planning, Public and Health Administration for more than half of his career at Eastern.

Hurand has also served on numerous campus committees. He has presented professional papers at national and international conferences and has chapters in three books. At Eastern, he has been actively involved in providing community service to communities, counties and neighborhoods throughout Eastern Washington, providing his students the opportunity to apply what they learn.

He was an active member in the Washington Chapter of the American Planning Association, serving as its secretary and president. As president, he served on the Chapter Presidents Council of the national American Planning Association. He has also been a longtime member of the Board of the Planning Association of Washington. He was the first chair of the Spokane City/County Historic Preservation Committee and served on the Spokane City Design Review Board and the King County Design Review Commission.

In 1999, Hurand received the Trustee’s Medal for his work at the university and also was selected to be in the first class of Fellows in American Institute of Certified Planners. However, he sees his greatest achievement in the hundreds of young planners he has taught – planners who have gone on to assist communities throughout the Northwest.

Golie Jansen, PhD

Golie Jansen received her undergraduate social work degree from the CICSA School of Social Work Amsterdam, The Netherlands. She came to the United States in 1978, and received a master’s of social work from Eastern Washington University in 1980. She received a doctorate degree in social work from the University of Illinois in Urbana-Champaign in 1992.

Jansen joined the faculty of the Inland Empire School of Social Work and Human Services at Eastern Washington University in 1992, teaching courses in leadership and management, community practice, group work and cross-listed courses with women’s and gender studies in areas such as gender and sexual assault, family violence, women’s rights and women and social reform.

Prior to coming to EWU, her work experiences included a stint in The Netherlands in a peace and social justice movement, in Papua, New Guinea for the United Nations and working with Southeast Asian refugee women in the United States.

Her research and writing are mainly focused on women’s issues, addressing vicarious traumatization, violence against women and the effects of war on women’s physical and mental health.

Jansen served on numerous community boards and has served as president of the Spokane United Nations Association. From 2004-2008 she directed a Department of Justice - Violence Against Women campus grant, “Changing Campus Climate: Reducing Violence Against Women at EWU.”

She was instrumental in educating EWU students and the university community about partner violence. She was involved in training numerous faculty, staff and students to become active in making power based intimate partner violence unacceptable.

Jansen will retire from Eastern on July 1, 2012.

Ernie McGoran, PhD

Ernie McGoran received a BA from the University of Oregon in 1962, earning the outstanding graduating chemistry major award and Phi Beta Kappa membership in the process. He earned his PhD at the University of California, Berkeley, working with professor Donald Noyce (the brother of Intel co-founder Robert Noyce), a physical organic chemist known for his teaching excellence. He then completed a one-year post-doctoral study at Michigan State University with professor Harold Hart, also an excellent mentor.

He was hired by Eastern Washington State College in 1966. Early in his career, McGoran directed five master’s degree graduate students in chemistry. He spent two summers doing research with Bill Richardson, PhD, at California State University at San Diego in 1967 and 1968, before taking a sabbatical leave at the University of Alberta in Edmonton in 1974-1975. There, he conducted research with organic peroxides, compounds known for their very high level of reactivity which provided useful experience for a later sabbatical leave in Switzerland.

From 1982-1984, McGoran performed research at the University of Geneva, Switzerland, with support from the World Health Organization on analogs of Artemisin, an organic peroxide used to treat malaria. It remains the drug of choice to cure cerebral malaria.

After returning from Switzerland, he continued his research through several summer research grants and secured two National Science Foundation- Instrumentation and Laboratory Improvement grants, one of which was used to acquire the 300-MHz Bruker NMR that was used by the department for more than 20 years. McGoran established a long record of research-inspired teaching of organic chemistry and a legacy of genuine interest in student learning success in the department.
Lynne Clemmons Morris, PhD

Lynne Clemmons Morris, MSW PhD, joined the faculty of the Inland Empire School of Social Work and Human Services at Eastern Washington University in 1983. She retired after 28 years of service at the end of summer quarter 2011.

Morris made major contributions in the areas of rural social work, serving on the Editorial Advisory Board for the Journal of Community Psychology, editing the journal Human Services in the Rural Environment, and leading the national movement to develop relevant curricula focused on rural needs and issues. She actively supported increased access to higher education for students in rural Northwest communities through the development of the EWU School of Social Work's community-based social work programs. She held memberships in the Rural Social Work Caucus, Phi Kappa Phi and Phi Beta Kappa.

In terms of service, she provided national and regional leadership for numerous groups addressing rural needs. At EWU, she chaired and served on numerous school, college and university committees and councils. She served twice as master of social work graduate program director and as chair of the School of Social Work.

Morris was an exceptionally talented educator with expertise in the areas of community practice and research. She influenced EWU graduates for many years to focus attention on rural issues and was the recipient of an EWU Century Tel Faculty Achievement Award for Teaching Excellence. Morris prepared students to understand the community context of social work practice and equipped them with the leadership skills and knowledge needed to advance excellence in social work practice.

Jennifer Stucker, PhD

Jennifer Stucker received a PhD in social welfare from the University of California, Berkeley and an MSW from the University of Hawaii.

She joined the faculty of the Inland Empire School of Social Work and Human Services at Eastern Washington University in 1987, after five years with the University of Guam and two years with the University of Maryland, European Division.

Her teaching employed a global perspective to help students understand the societal context of social work practice. She provided the contextual framework emerging social work professionals need for careers dedicated to social change and inclusion.

As a community engaged scholar, she conducted research and lead programs serving public assistance recipients striving to improve their lives; the Single Parent Outreach Connection in Spokane and the FIPSE grant Single Parent Project at Eastern.

She has held regional, state and national leadership positions with the National Association of Social Workers for much of her career. Stucker will retire the end of summer quarter 2012, following 25 years of service.
Trustees’ Medal Award

Dana C. Elder, PhD

Dana C. Elder, PhD, has been chosen as the 2012 Trustees’ Medal Award recipient. Elder has served as the director of Eastern Washington University’s Honors Program since 2007. Prior to that, he served seven years as chair of the English Department.

He earned his BA in Spanish language and literature in 1973 from the University of Washington and his master’s degree in comparative literature in 1975, also from UW. In 1985, he received his doctorate degree in rhetoric, composition and English literature from Washington State University.

Elder has provided leadership and expertise in teaching, scholarship and service during his many years of service to the university. He has served as a mentor to junior colleagues, offering advice and guidance. He also counsels students, offering advice on a wide variety of issues, such as graduate school applications, choice of major or career and, occasionally, how to overcome a freshman-year slump.

In his tenure at EWU, he has performed admirably in administrative work, occupying a range of posts requiring a variety of skills and virtues. He’s served wherever needed, including key committees in the Faculty Organization. In his current service to the Honors Program, he demonstrates his talent for combining sound and responsible administrative skills with a deep commitment to the educational mission of the university, as well as the need of his students.

Students hold Elder in high regard and value his wise council and tireless involvement in their success. He expects academic excellence from them and himself, and he not only focuses on the accomplishments of his students while at Eastern, but he also strives to enrich the quality of their lives beyond their university experience. Under Elder’s leadership, EWU honors students are building the most essential skills and dispositions to be critical thinkers, lifelong learners and enlightened citizens.

Over the years he has received many honors, including the Edmund J. Yarwood Dean's Honor Faculty Award in 2010 and 2001, Outstanding Faculty Award in Scholarship/Creative Activity, in 2009, Best Educator of the West Plains: EWU Education 2005, and the Commander’s Coin for Excellence in Service to the Battalion in 2005, ROTC Honors Reception.

He participates in regional and national conferences such as the prestigious Conference on College Composition and Communications, the Rhetoric Society of America and the Classical Association of the Pacific Northwest. He not only participates, but he encourages junior colleagues and students to do the same.

In the past few years, Elder has published a number of articles in respected journals, including: “Writing Classical Rhetoric” and “The Members of Rhetoric” in Rhetoric Review (2011, 2008) and “Return to the Western Highlands,” “Father’s Photos,” and “Worth Fighting For,” in Teaching English in the Two-Year College (2010, 2009, 2009).

Elder brings to life the aspirations of the university for excellence, not merely in academics but in all things that touch upon living the ethical life. He has developed as an exemplar of those qualities toward which we strive. As the example for students, faculty and the community at large, he continues to demonstrate the meaning of service in the highest form.
Kristi Dueñas has served as an information technology specialist IV for the Graduate Studies Office since February 2005. Prior to that, she worked more than five years as the GSO coordinator.

"If there is an answer to a question or problem, or a new idea, Kristi has the answer – and she oftentimes provides the answer without first being asked the question," writes Leslie Swannack in her nomination letter. "Her extensive knowledge of the university and technology allows her to make recommendations for the good of all. Not only is Kristi professional, but she is also a positive person, showing her genuine interest in people. She is cheerful and bubbly, which affects everyone who comes in contact with her. In these stressful times, her outlook is most welcome."

Diana Teague-White agrees, "Kristi’s sunny nature and positive attitude make her a delightful coworker. She encourages new ideas and learning new methods of accomplishing our day-to-day duties. Kristi has been critical in developing new office processes and making the Graduate Studies Office run more efficiently. She is continually looking for new and creative ways to utilize technology to streamline processes that will help to serve the graduate student population at EWU. When the GSO lost the director position due to budget cuts, Kristi volunteered to take on some of the responsibilities that aligned with her duties. Kristi also directs the work of student employees. One of those students, Regina Wike, wrote, "Kristi always looks for the positive in everything and everyone – this is a great attribute to demonstrate for student workers. She respects everybody around her, in addition to respecting herself."

EWU graduate Brandon Ruffridge, who also worked with Kristi agreed, “Her door was always open to anyone seeking information about Eastern’s Graduate Studies Program. She promoted the university well with her friendly smile and demeanor. My college experience would not have been the same without the opportunity to work with Kristi.”

Kristi has served the EWU community in many ways over the years, including the EWU Community Food Drive, Oktoberfest, Residence Hall House Calls and the annual Halloween event.

Mary Benham has made significant contributions throughout her 28 years of service to the university. As coordinator and academic advisor for the Honors Program, she has identified and recruited student prospects, reviewed transcripts and applications, and managed scholarship allocations.

Professor Dana C. Elder has worked closely with Mary during the past four years. In his nomination letter, Elder wrote, “Mary Benham has maintained and enhanced the Honors Program and represented it in a variety of venues on and off campus. She has provided continuity for the program in times of administrative and budgeting change, and she has trained and supervised numerous student workers in the program office. She has generously helped faculty better address students’ academic and special needs more times than I can count. As a member of the Honors’ faculty, and now also the program’s director, I could not ask for a better or more supportive colleague.”

Professor Grant W. Smith wrote, “She takes a serious and personal interest in every student. They know it, they feel it and they have expressed their appreciation of her often. These are many of the brightest students on our campus, and I have seen Mary Benham rescue many from discouragement and probable failure. Service depends on attitude, as well as ability. Mary Benham has both in super abundance."

R. Skyler Oberst, secretary-general of the Compassionate Interfaith Society, is one of the many students Benham has influenced over the years. He wrote, “Her graciousness and kindness has no bounds. She has always stood up for those who are the voiceless on campus, and she has been an advocate for the downtrodden. She has been a major supporter of the Compassionate Interfaith Society and has been instrumental in the success of many of the large, award-winning events the CIS has hosted.”

Mary has also contributed in ways not directly connected to her service to the university. She has contributed her fluency in French and Spanish to educational and community service efforts over the years. She currently volunteers as a Spanish translator at the Shriner’s Children’s Hospital in Spokane.
The Frances B. Huston Medallion Award was established in 1998 by a gift from Mary Ann Nelson, professor of English emerita, as a tribute to Huston’s lifelong commitment to education and a generosity to students that was quiet, but ongoing. The medallion award program recognizes outstanding graduates and reflects Huston’s compassion and respect for what education can do for an individual and the community.

The recipients of this award will have established themselves as exceptionally capable individuals in both academic and extracurricular activities. The faculty and administration of Eastern Washington University acknowledge their great pride in the accomplishments of these students during their college experience, and expect even greater accomplishments in the years that lie ahead.
